

Ten Middle School students will visit the TV20 News studios on January 13th in the am. They will meet with programming directors, producers, and reporters to deliver a brief news story while reading a prepared script from a teleprompter.

These students will be assessed on their public speaking skills as well as their poise and professionalism in a high-pressure situation. This round will also require the students to have a knowledge of local issues that haven in the news and be able to discuss them with the TV20 News Staff.

The objective: Maintain composure while delivering a professional monologue as well as sharing in-depth knowledge of issues important to our local community.
